Committee To Explore Mafia's Connection With Teamsters

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Vincent (Jimmy) Squillante, who has been pictured as a big man in the New York rackets stepped behind the Fifth Amendment today when questioned before a Senate investigating committee.

Abel Receives 30-Year Prison Term As Spy

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP)—Russian Col. Rudolf I. Abel, abandoned to his fate by his Soviet masters, today was sentenced to 30 years in prison as a spy. He could have gotten the death penalty.

Defense Atty. James Donovan, seeking mercy for the wispy little master spy, held out the remote hope that Abel some day may have a change of heart and tell what he knows about the Red spy apparatus he so faithfully served. Abel declined to testify in his own behalf at his recent trial.

Or, Donovan added, the time may come when Abel can be used in an exchange to save the life of an American spy who might fall into Russian hands.

Abel also was fined $3,000 by U.S. Dist. Judge Mortimer W. Byers. He said the sentence best served "the interest of the United States in the present and foreseeable future."

From the moment of Abel's arrest last June 21, the Soviet government never moved a hand to lend him aid. Traditionally, a spy expects no mercy when he is captured. But in prior espionage cases, the Russians have made determined efforts to aid nationals seized in this country.

Abel, 55, frowned but displayed no emotion at the sentence. He wore the same stoic, composed air that he maintained throughout a three-week trial. It ended Oct. 25 in his conviction in Brooklyn federal court.

Abel sneaked into this country in 1948 and for nine years operated a spy network. During that period, he posed as a nondescript artist.

Abel was the first foreign national to stand trial for his life on espionage charges in a civilian American courtroom. He also was the highest ranking Soviet agent ever tried here.

Science Cabinet Post Advocated

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 15 (AP)—Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) said today legislation will be introduced in the next session of Congress to create a new secretary of science post in the Cabinet to head a department of science and technology, consolidating major science and basic research functions.

The Minnesota Democrat, in a talk prepared for delivery before the Engineers Club of Minneapolis, said the proposed legislation would include new standing committees on science and technology in both houses of Congress, a broad system of science scholarships and incentives to science instructors and students, and a central clearing house of scientific information.

Black Bear Gave Its Life To Aid Studies In Speed

ALAMOGORDO, N.M., Nov. 15 (AP)—A black bear named Oscar was reported today to have given his life in furtherance of man's studies of high speed travel.

The death of the bear was disclosed by members of the 3rd annual crash and field conference held at Holloman Air Force Base near here this week.

The 5 foot 1 1/2 Squillante, alleged overlord of a 50-million-dollar a year trash collecting industry, refused to answer a series of questions on the ground the answers may tend to incriminate me."

Queries Turned Aside

Among the questions turned aside were:

1. Whether he is an important figure in the Mafia, or Black Hand criminal society, and a dealer in narcotics. Committeemen said they planned to explore later whether the Mafia is involved in the giant Teamsters Union "generally" and is trying to take over the country.

2. Whether he actually is the godson of slain gangster Albert Anastasia, as he has boasted on other occasions.

Squillante, 40, wearing heavy blackrimmed glasses, refused to answer more than 90 questions in his first 40 minutes on the stand.

He was called before the Rackets Investigating Committee after a staff investigator told of a garbage collectors' fund established last year for the defense of Squillante "in any shape or form."

The investigator, James P. Kelly testified the $57,855 fund was set up at a June 7, 1956 meeting of the Greater New York Cartmen's Assn., a trade organization for garbage and refuse collectors in New York City. The association has been pictured in previous testimony as under Squillante's domination.

Minutes Are Read

Minutes of the meeting read by Kelly quoted Squillante as telling association members that the fund should be used for five purposes:

"1. Defense of the association and its members.
"2. Defense of Vincent J. Squillante (in any shape or form).
"3. Defense of any cartman. . .
"4. Publicity, advertising . . . research.
"5. Any charitable action for the benefit of mankind."

On June 14, Kelly said Squillante received a cashier's check for $14,215.99 against the fund and endorsed it for payment to the collector of internal revenue.

"He had a very nice racket for taking care of his income taxes," Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) remarked.

Kelly also read into the record a letter dated Oct. 31, 1956, which he said was written by Squillante "after newspapers revealed the windfall" of the defense fund payment of income taxes.

In this letter Squillante agreed to repay the defense fund.

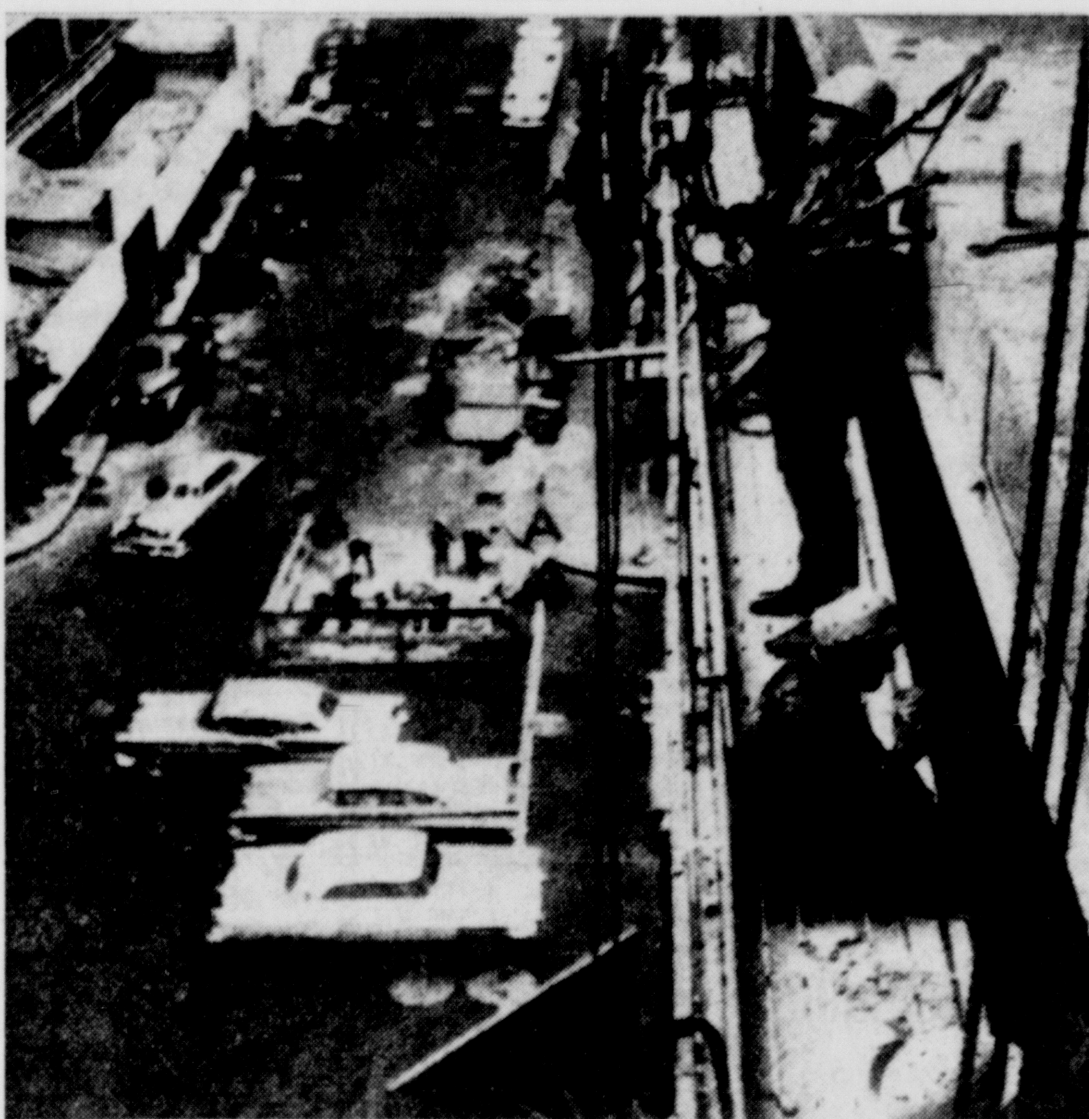

According to the minutes of the June 7, 1956 meeting as read by Kelly, Squillante urged creation of the fund because of attacks on the cartmen's association by newspapers and "by the Republican National Committee."

Under Investigation

The minutes quoted Squillante as saying he was under investigation by state and city authorities in connection with alleged restraint of trade. They quoted him as saying the best plan of defense was "to engage the best legal services and the best legal minds. . . spend substantial sums of money in order to engage this type of counsel."

Kelly testified a total of $47,855 was paid to the fund.

Bakery Union Is Suspended By AFL-CIO

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The AFL-CIO suspended the Bakery Workers Union from AFL-CIO membership today on grounds of corruption.

Even so, James G. Cross, turbulent president, kept on fighting against the ouster.

He told a news conference the action was illegal, that the AFL-CIO had no business ordering a member union to throw out duly elected officers.

Cross was one that the AFL-CIO leaders specifically wanted thrown out. He stands accused of spending union money on himself and of making collusive deals with employers.

Also, Cross said—perhaps significantly—that the Bakers Union has a mutual assistance pact with the Teamsters Union, whose members transport the products of 90 per cent of the bakeries that the union has organized.

The Teamsters, too, are under AFL-CIO suspension on charges of corruption.

"I would like to meet in the house of labor," Cross told reporters. "We can get along without the AFL-CIO but we don't want to."

Cross said AFL-CIO President George Meany, who announced the suspension, is being informed that a committee from the union is ready to meet with him to discuss a solution.

He also repeated that he intends to run for re-election as president, even though the AFL-CIO had instructed the union not to permit him to hold office.

The AFL-CIO also had instructed that Curtis R. Sims, who brought the corruption charges against Cross, be restored to his old office as secretary-treasurer of the union. Sims had been thrown out after a union hearing.

The Bakers' executive board voted yesterday to hold a new election, which the AFL-CIO had demanded, but with Cross again in the running. The board also refused to reinstate Sims.

The suspension will become expulsion, if this is approved by the AFL-CIO convention next month. The Baker Union has about 142,000 members.

Air Force Base Warns Hunters

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla., Nov. 15 (AP)—The Air Force issued a warning to hunters today on the eve of the opening of the deer season.

Don't pick up any rockets, flares, fuses, bombs or missiles you might stumble over in the woods while hunting on the Eglin reservation.

The announcement said, "If you run across such miscellaneous hardware, don't fool around with it, call the base explosives ordnance disposal office."

"We get paid for taking the risk you don't."

Two-Hour Stay After School Was Not Boy's Fault

LA PUENTE, Calif., Nov. 15 (AP)—A youngster stayed after school for more than two hours—but it wasn't the teacher's idea.

Paul Hayes, 9, told firemen last night that he was "just fooling around" when he caught a finger in a metal portion of his school desk.

The teacher, Miss Tanna Hagen, spent an hour trying to extricate her pupil and finally called firemen who cut the desk apart with hacksaws. Paul went home after dark — a legend with a sore finger.

U.S. Asks Stop To Travel Ban

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—The United States has called on Russia to stop banning travel by U.S. citizens on nearly a third of Soviet territory, offering a similar relaxation on Russians' travels here in return.

The State Department said the proposal was made in a note delivered Nov. 11 to the Soviet Embassy.

The note also told the Russians that the existing U.S. ban on American travel by Soviet citizens had been amended. The change added about 1.4 per cent net to the territory on the restricted list, making the total of off-limits area come to more than 35 per cent of the United States. The revision closed some new areas and opened up others.

The note said this was in retaliation for a similar tightening up by the Soviet government last Aug. 28.

The travel ban has been in effect in the United States since January, 1955. A long list of banned cities and states was drawn up to balance similar restrictions imposed by Russia from time to time after World War II.

Grim Clues Found In Plane Wreckage

HONOLULU, Nov. 15 (AP)—Fire-scattered wreckage and broken bodies provided grim clues today to the mystery as to why Pan American's Romance of the Skies plunged 10,000 feet into the Pacific a week ago without one radioed word of trouble.

External injuries and broken bones of the 17 bodies recovered made clear the Stratocruiser hit the sea with terrific force.

The fact most of the bodies were shoeless and clad in life jackets suggested the 44 occupants were aware a ditching was being attempted.

Israel Sues For Russian Oil

MOSCOW, Nov. 15 (INS)—Israel deposited $11,900 in the Soviet Foreign Trade Bank today to finance a suit charging that Russia reneged on a $23,800,000 contract to sell Israel oil.

The breach of contract action will be heard by three arbitrators, all Russians, selected by agreement between Israel and the Soviet Union.

Tunis Arms Plan Raises French Ire

Delivery Causes Walkout At NATO; Tunisians Pleased

TUNIS, Tunisia, Nov. 15 (AP)—This young Arab nation's pro-Western president declared today delivery of small arms to Tunisia by the United States and Britain could change the history of North Africa. The deliveries put France in a towering rage.

Hailing the United States particularly for its "role of champion of liberty," President Habib Bourguiba declared Tunisia belongs to the free world and intends to stay there.

But Paris newspapers hotly accused France's two big Western partners of "blackmail" and suggested France pull out of the North Atlantic Alliance. The French delegation walked out—at least temporarily—from a NATO parliamentary meeting in Paris where preliminary efforts are being made to strengthen the solidarity of the alliance in the face of Soviet achievements in missile and earth satellite science.

Summit Meeting Periled

Premier Felix Gaillard told the French Parliament next month's scheduled NATO summit meeting in Paris could be imperiled unless the issue is settled to French satisfaction.

The explosion of French feeling, coming on top of the split with the French States over Suez a year ago, was touched off only a few weeks before the summit meeting which President Eisenhower is to attend.

By way of formally registering its great displeasure, the French government fired off diplomatic protests to both Washington and London.

The cause of the furor was a token shipment of 350 submachine guns and 70 Bren guns from Britain, and 500 semiautomatic rifles and ammunition from the United States.

Two British planes rushed the British arms here today, Tunisia's top brass, as well as civilian officials, were on hand to see the weapons carted off promptly in army trucks. A U.S. plane arrived 16 hours later with the American-supplied assistance.

Presses For Arms

For months, Bourguiba has been pressing the West for arms for his 6,000-man army. He has claimed only 3,000 of his men had rifles, and that some were down to three cartridges apiece.

He has threatened to turn to other sources—presumably Communist Russia—for his needs. Egypt offered Soviet-made guns and Bourguiba announced today he said the United States made no objection.

France feared the weapons would find their way into the hands of smugglers who would deliver them to Algerian rebels. The United States said it had assurance from Tunisia the arms would be held for that country's security.

South Greeted Ike As Usual

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 15 (AP)—President Eisenhower was greeted just about exactly as usual—in an outwardly friendly manner—on his arrival in the Deep South today for the first time since he ordered troops into Little Rock, Ark.

This is the President's 16th visit to Augusta for a golfing holiday since his 1952 election, and his coming this time was completely without incident.

There had been general speculation—and White House aides wondered, too—whether Eisenhower's Sept. 24 dispatch of federal troops to Little Rock in the school integration crisis might provoke a display of ill feeling.

But everything went off smoothly as the President and Mrs. Eisenhower, both smiling, arrived by plane after a two-hour flight from Washington. Eisenhower plans to be at the Augusta National Golf Club for five or six days.

The President has been here so many times in the last five years that Augustans have come to kind of take him for granted. The crowds which turn out to greet him have been quite small the last several visits.

New Manager Of Satellites To Be Named

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—Secretary of Defense McElroy, acknowledging Russia has seized the lead in satellites and missiles, announced plans today to put a new general manager in charge of such futuristic projects as anti-missile missiles and space vehicles.

One major purpose of the move is to avoid pulling and hauling among the armed services—a rivalry which some critics say has hampered progress on missiles and satellites.

In another effort to catch up with the Soviets, Dr. James R. Killian Jr., president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was sworn in this morning as President Eisenhower's scientific military coordinator.

McElroy told his first full dress news conference at the Pentagon that it "seems rather obvious to me that we are behind the Russians" in missile and satellite development.

He then said that within a month the Defense Department hopes to appoint a single manager for what he called "upstream" type projects such as the anti-missile missile and military application of space vehicles.

Under this new manager, McElroy said, the Defense Department would have direct operating responsibility for all research, development and engineering of future space vehicles or weapons up to the point where they can be turned over to a single military service for actual use.

The defense chief said he hoped such an arrangement would avoid wasteful competition among the military services in the early stages of weapon development.

A new title and expanded authority was announced for William M. Holaday, the secretary's guided missile aide. McElroy said Holaday would become director of guided missiles. It appeared that Holaday would continue to have supervision over missile programs that are operational or in an advanced stage of development.

McElroy said the best man available would be obtained for the new job of space chief and that he might be drawn from either civilian or military ranks.

School Class Picks Negro Girl As Football Queen

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 15 (AP)—Last week, the senior class of Scott High School went about the annual task of electing a football queen.

Three girls were nominated. From them, the seniors picked one to be queen and two to be her attendants.

Last Monday the results were announced and the pupils found they had prepared their own test in racial tolerance. Their queen was a Negro and her attendants were white.

For a time it appeared the crown would rest heavily on the head of 17-year-old Janet Quinn. Rumors began to flit around the school.

Among them: All of the whites were going to leave school; Negroes and whites were going to have a big battle for race supremacy.

On Tuesday night, an effigy of the queen was hanged from a tree in front of the school.

The following morning, Principal R. J. Langstaff decided it was time the school administration stepped in.

He addressed the pupils over the Plane Hits Wooded Hillside; Some Of 58 Passengers Saved

NEWPORT, Isle of Wight, England, Saturday, Nov. 16 (AP)—A four-engine British Solent flying boat crashed in flames on a wooded hillside near Newport last night and 43 of the 58 persons aboard were believed killed.

Firemen pulled a number of survivors from the wreckage. Some were in serious condition.

The plane, belonging to the British Aquila Airline, crashed with 50 passengers and a crew of eight shortly after taking off from Southampton on a trip to Lisbon, Portugal.

Trees were set ablaze and a police officer who rushed to the scene said the only recognizable part of the plane was the tail, "sticking up above the flames."

Second Accident

It was the second accident involving an Aquila plane this year. Last March one of the line's Solents hit a rock while taking off from Majorca, Balearic Islands. On that occasion all the 60 aboard climbed on the wing of the plane and were rescued by launches.

The Solent is the civil version of the Sunderland flying boat. It is a 35-ton craft with four propeller engines. The plane has a wing span of 112 feet, is 89 feet long and flies at a top speed of about 275 miles an hour.

Aquila Airways runs a flying boat service from Southampton to Lisbon, Madeira, the Canary Islands and Capri.

A spokesman for the Civil Aviation Ministry said there were 15 survivors of the crash on the Isle of Wight, a popular resort area in the English Channel off the Hampshire coast. Thirteen of these were hospitalized.

One Engine Failed

The spokesman said he understood the pilot had radioed one engine failed and that he was returning to Southampton. The crash was reported to have come 15 minutes later.

Police and firemen rushed to the scene and found the wreckage lying in a ring of blazing trees. "A number of men and women got out alive, although mostly rather burned," a policeman spokesman said.

"Firemen got among the wreckage and brought out a series of burned bodies. The men and women I saw were in civilian clothes."

The plane came down near a farm owned by author J. B. Priestley.

Priestley's shepherd, Harry Tyrrell, was first to get to wreckage and helped pull out some of injured.

UN Postpones Disarm Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 15 (AP)—The United Nations postponed action late today on controversial disarmament proposals in the hope of working out a compromise which would avert a Soviet boycott of future disarmament talks.

Behind-the-scenes negotiations were preceding at a hot pace as the 80-nation General Assembly met to consider rival East-West plans for enlarging the disarmament commission.

public address system and instructed teachers to discuss the election in classes.

Then the Student Council suggested an assembly of juniors and seniors. Some 700 pupils met in the auditorium, staying on a half hour after classes normally are dismissed.

"It was a wonderful meeting," said Langstaff. "The kids apologized to each other for the things they had said. About 30 or 40 of them spoke up and nothing was said that wasn't harmonious."

Langstaff said the election of Miss Quinn was a "shock" to the students because it had more social implications than the election of a Negro Student Council president last year. Scott's enrollment of 1,650 is about half Negro and half white. The senior class is 60 per cent white.

High-Speed AF Communication Center Opened

ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE, Md., Nov. 15 (AP)—The Air Force put into operation today the first of a series of high-speed electronic communications centers designed to link its installations throughout the world.

The new system, designed, installed and leased to the Air Force by Western Union, is scheduled for full operation domestically by the end of 1958, and for complete global operation by the end of 1959.

Maj. Gen. Dudley D. Hale, commander of the Airways and Air Communications Service, said the capacity of the new system would be handled by 480 operators, compared with 1,300 formerly required.

The nationwide network is being built around five main domestic communications centers.

The first center here will begin full operation next April, and will be followed by these additional stations: McClellan Air Force Base, Sacramento, Calif., June 1958; Wright Patterson, Dayton, Ohio, August 1958; Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Worth, Tex., November 1958; Robins Air Force Base, Macon, Ga., January 1959.

Similar automatic tape relay units will be installed overseas in 1959 as follows: Croughton, England, March; Hickam, Honolulu, June; Fuchu, Tokyo, August; Joes Bay, Labrador, October; and Sidi Slimane, Africa, December.

When the 200,000-mile private wire system is fully operational, a message will be typed only once, at the place of origin, and may be flashed automatically to the desired Air Force facility.

Messages are written out on the typewriter-like keyboard of a tape perforator. The tape passes through an automatic transmitter and arrives converted back to the written word in standard telegram form.

One feature permits the movement of identical message simultaneously to a number of addresses. An electronic transmitter with a speed of 200 words a minute "reads" each address and sets up a separate connection automatically to each destination.

Big Gangland Meeting Broken Up By Police

APALACHIAN, N.Y., Nov. 15 (AP)—Police from coast to coast pondered today on whether a new explosion in gangland had been blueprinted by 65 men, many of them widely known criminals, who gathered at a remote hilltop mansion.

Several of the men had been questioned in the barbershop slaying of mobster Albert Anastasia by two masked gunmen in New York City last month, police said.

The well-heeled visitors, whose meeting near here was broken up yesterday by state police, insisted that host Joseph Barbara was sick and they "just happened to drop in at the same time" to pay their respects.

They dropped out at the same time, too, under police orders.

Police said the group included racketeers, dope peddlers, bookies and some seemingly legitimate business men.

Speculation grew that underworld figures might be carving up Anastasia's racket kingdom or that a sequel was in the works.

In New York City, Dep. Chief Inspector Edward W. Brynes arranged a "top-level" police conference to determine whether Anastasia's estate figured in the discussion.

Police elsewhere noted that some of the group had been linked to the Mafia, an underworld organization with roots in Italy.

Troopers moved in on the meeting after they became curious at the caravan of plush limousines rolling around this quiet community of 4,000 persons in south-central New York near Binghamton and the Pennsylvania line.

Washington Area Awaits Million Population Mark

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15 (AP)—A baby born between 8 a. m. and 10 a. m. next Thursday will be designated the two millionth inhabitant of the Washington metropolitan area.

The Washington Board of Trade estimates that the two million mark will be reached at approximately that time. It has asked the area's 20 hospitals to report details on all births during the two-hour period. An anonymous committee then will review the information and select a baby to be designated as No. 2,000,000. The baby will receive gifts and considerable publicity.

State Banking Law Attacked In Court Case

TOWSON, Md., Nov. 15 (AP)—A Maryland law forbidding derogatory statements about the financial condition of a bank was attacked today as the trial of a newspaper editor opened in Baltimore County Circuit Court.

Defense attorneys contended the law is unconstitutional because it abridges the guarantees of freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

They also asked for dismissal of the charges against W. Fenwick Keyser and his Union News, a Towson weekly newspaper, on the ground that the indictments against them are faulty. Court recessed to consider the arguments before ruling on the dismissal motion.

Keyser and his newspaper were indicted on charges of making false statements about the Towson National Bank and the Second National Bank of Towson in the Oct. 4 issue of the newspaper.

That issue of the weekly was dedicated to National Newspaper Week and all the stories printed on the front page were false. Keyser explained, in his weekly column printed on the same page, that the falsehoods were printed as an example of what might happen if newspapers were government-controlled.

State's Attorney Frank H. Newell III contended that indictments against Keyser and the newspaper were valid, that any indictment is valid if it is encompassed in the words of the statute.

Newell said the charges do not constitute libel and it was not required that the exact words of the newspaper article be attached to the indictments.

Keyser's attorneys argued that the law in question is valueless and indefinite and fails to specify the acts which it forbids.

"If you criticize a bank for having made a poor loan, is that a crime?" asked defense attorney Charles C. G. Evans.

Defense attorney Hilary Gans contended the indictments fail to specify the precise charge against Keyser and fail to specify the issue of the paper in which the alleged articles appeared.

Keyser also faces three civil suits seeking a total of 2½ million dollars in damages for alleged libel.

Missile Nose Cone Looked Like Meteorite

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Nov. 15 (AP)—A Jupiter-C missile nose cone that was fired back through the atmosphere and recovered looked like a brilliant meteorite, witnesses said in statements released today.

Eyewitness accounts of the Army's successful launching and recovery were made public today. The nose cone was displayed publicly by President Eisenhower in a recent television broadcast.

The test vehicle was fired from Cape Canaveral, Fla., into the Atlantic, flashing directly to the target area.

Six civilian observers representing the Army ballistic missile agency were aboard Navy ships for the purpose of witnessing the recovery operation.

The model cone was developed in support of the Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile program being carried on by the missile agency commanded by Maj. Gen. J. B. Medaris.

Success of the project demonstrated a means by which the warhead of the IRBM can be protected against aerodynamic heating encountered when an object returns to earth's atmosphere from outer space.

One observer, Harry I. Thayer of the structures and mechanics laboratory in the agency, described his experience while on the USS Peterson 30 miles from the predicted impact point.

"I was standing on the left bridge deck protrusion," he said, "and the nose cone appeared in the heavens, a little outside the left faint of the ship. It was at a height comparable to the moon at that hour."

"The cone was brilliant yellow to white hot in color and its contour was perfectly described with the nose foremost. It appeared to be dropping vertically."

"The Peterson immediately turned toward the impact area at full speed," Thayer said.

"We sighted a plane circling toward the floating nose cone after turning toward it, and we soon sighted the smoke flares."

"A small light on the balloon attached to the cone was also seen. Two divers, one officer and one seaman, very quickly manned their small rubber life raft and within half an hour the divers had secured the metal buoy cable. They also secured another line to the nose cone cable."

"There were a number of sharks in the area. Two were near the nose cone and the raft during the hour the men stayed with the cone. One large shark just swam close while the smaller one butted the cone a couple of times and the life raft once, for which he received a swat with a well-directed paddle."

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Now's A Good Time To Change

It's natural, in pondering the kind of impression you make, to have in mind a fascinating stranger — the person you haven't met yet, who will change everything. But you make some sort of impression on everybody, and it could mean a great deal to give people you already know and work with, a different idea of the kind of person you are.

Don't you honestly have more to offer than is sometimes recognized? To be fair to yourself, if for others more to go by so they can form better opinions. Good inner qualities deserve to be indicated on the outside, and they can be by appearance and manner.

Don't think of the improvements you can make in your appearance as superficial — they're not. Suppose you change from an habitually drooping posture and an ungainly walk to straight-backed, chin-up alertness and a sprightly, graceful step. Your figure will benefit, but you'll also look so much more spirited that everybody will want to find out more about that bright side of you that few knew you had. Your feeling of well-being will be emphasized, and so will the impression that you're someone who's going places. In social, as well as business life, this can mean a lot.

NOW IN 1,100 tongues

God must speak to men. Despite the barriers of language and dialect which separate nation from nation, tribe from tribe—God must speak to men!

This conviction has long inspired the American Bible Society in its stupendous task . . . to translate God's word into every tongue . . . to place the Bible in every hand.

Now in 1,100 tongues God has spoken to men through inspired Scripture. In marble cathedrals and mud huts the same timeless truths are read, heard, taught and discussed in the words men know. And millions of Bibles, Testaments, and portions of Scripture are being placed in eager hands.

This is our triumph . . . and our continuing challenge . . . the countless Christians who, individually and through our churches, make possible the work of the American Bible Society. Thank God! Carry on!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A Spirit That Will Get Results

Defense Secretary McElroy's order directing the Army to prepare to launch earth satellites represents a sudden reversal of department policy. The policy reversed was set more than two years ago when the Administration decided to give highest priority to the military ballistic missile program and entrusted it to the Air Force. The satellite program, which was not to be permitted to interfere with it, went to the Navy.

As for the Army, last November it was restricted to the development of missiles with a range limited to 200 miles although its Jupiter C missile had been fired more than 3,500 miles and had reached an altitude of more than 600 miles. Secretary McElroy said his order was intended "to provide a second means" of putting earth satellites into the air during the international Geophysical Year. He praised the Navy for its progress with its Project Vanguard, saying that firings had exceeded predicted performances in every case.

But the big fact is that the Army is in the earth satellite picture and, by virtue of that fact, back in the long range ballistic missile picture as well.

If this reflects a certain amount of confusion, it also points to a new determination to get an earth satellite aloft with all possible speed. The Administration now seems determined to attempt to recapture the technological initiative from the Soviet Union, which has already launched two Sputniks, and thereby recover the prestige this country has lost.

If the Administration is prepared to change its signals, and even have it pointed out that it has done so abruptly and not according to plan, that may be proof of a spirit that will get results.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky Need For Reorganization

On June 27, 1956, in this column appeared the following paragraphs: "We have recently witnessed the spectacle of generals and admirals and members of the Cabinet appearing before a Senate committee and announcing to all the world with some detail that the Russians are beating us in the armament race. The country was as much taken by surprise as when it was discovered that the Russians had the atom bomb. "What is the real explanation for our backwardness? There is no use telling our people that we have taken second place in a field in which the American genius has been foremost, the field of inventiveness and manufacture. What has gone wrong?" What was said then was true until President Eisenhower announced that he had appointed a missile boss. Why the delay? Why is unification limited to missiles? Why the lack of effective meeting of challenges when they appear? The weapons of war are rapidly changing but this has always been true between wars. However now another factor has been added, namely, the speed of the change-over. There will be no 18 months delay while our factories tool up and get ready for the great push as there was in World War II. There will be no opportunity to knock out the enemy after he has fought for nearly six years on multiple fronts as we did to Hitler.

The first battle could be the last battle in the next war. The atom and hydrogen bombs delivered from airplanes may already be approaching obsolescence as we move into the era of guided missiles and rockets. The distance between the user of a weapon and the enemy may be as wide as between the Rockies and the Urals. When space is conquered, time disappears and what used to take years might be accomplished in time measured by minutes. The new weapons are designed to destroy cities which lend themselves to almost automatic destruction because of their complexities. Take, for instance, a city like New York. Underground is a most complex arrangement of arteries: subways, electric light and power wires, telephone cables, water mains, steam pipes, sewers, post office chutes, etc. A weapon which could put these out of commission swiftly would put the city out of commission. The streets are narrow and over-built by structures which rise to the apex of 102 floors as in the Empire State Building. The falling glass would assist an enemy as much as the fire that is inevitable even from a block-buster. The problem then is to strike at Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev and Odessa before the Russians can strike at New York, Detroit, Washington and Pittsburgh. The essential problem is not only the speed of the weapon but the speed of decision. There can be no time for a prolonged Senate debate nor for a President to make a television speech. There will be time only for decision and action. In a word, we have to revise all our ideas on the organization of our affairs. What we have always had in American history is no longer available to us. That is time. The clocks are spinning too swiftly for our habits and we shall have to change our ways if we mean to remain in the race.

The Eisenhower Administration has been too slow perhaps because of the President's assumption that he might some day work out something with Soviet Russia, perhaps through Marshal Zhukov. In this error of judgment, he was undoubtedly supported by government experts who have too rarely been right about Russia, as the record shows. The Zhukov phase of our official thinking ought to be over now. At any rate, there can be no meeting in Washington between comrades-at-arms who will introduce a diplomatic conversation by a recital of the good, old days when they fought the Nazis. Zhukov is now in no position to talk to Eisenhower. Therefore, President Eisenhower might just as well give up the theory that he will find a way to Khrushchev's heart; he will not because Khrushchev needs Eisenhower as a whipping boy, not as a friend. And as long as that is so, the value of speculating on what can be done by peaceful, friendly means, only loses time in the race for a balance of weapons, which is the war game we are now fighting.

Two-Handled Shut-Off

Truman's Comments On Missiles Amaze Friends

WASHINGTON — Friends of former President Truman who know what happened in the missile program under his Administration are frankly amazed at his comment that a missile program which he started was deliberately abandoned by the present Administration.

Mr. Truman was referring to the mission which he gave K. T. Keller, formerly the head of the Chrysler Corporation, to coordinate missile planning. He says he gave him full charge, but he really didn't. The work of Mr. Keller was not terminated by the Eisenhower Administration, but by the auto executive himself.

The facts were given on November 1 by Arthur Krock in The New York Times after a talk with Mr. Keller. The former President had ample opportunity to have his memory refreshed by reading the newspaper article, but he ignored it and preferred instead to charge the Eisenhower Administration with a refusal to continue Mr. Keller in the task begun prior to 1953. Mr. Krock wrote:

"When the Truman Administration was replaced, President Eisenhower asked Keller to remain and to take on the role of plenary administrator that he had declined when proffered by President Truman, and now once again declined. He was then 'importuned' to remain on his own terms, and did so remain, as an analyst and 'appraiser' until late 1953. At that point, estimating the missile program to be progressing effectively and at a satisfactory rate, and having spent himself physically, Keller on his own insistence retired.

"So the difference between the former President's recollection and those of others principally concerned is fundamental: Keller was never in 'full charge of the missile program'; he refused the role. He was not 'dismissed' by President Eisenhower, but urged by the Executive as by his predecessor to function under the McCone prescription. And Keller remained with the new Administration in his original capacity as long as he chose."

This correspondent talked with Mr. Keller a few days after the above article appeared, and the former Chrysler president completely confirmed the viewpoint expressed therein. He added that he didn't believe in the 'Czar' idea, as did Undersecretary McCone, because of a feeling that anyone who wanted to get results either had to be an important official of the Defense Department or an outside adviser. When he left Washington, he felt the Defense Department was getting along very well with the project and could handle it without someone in his place.

Mr. Keller, in his role of adviser and analyst, did a monumental job. Everyone here knew he had the confidence of the White House, and he was able within the machinery of the gov-

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Back in 1917 Chapin of the Evening World handed me assignments consisting of packing his mail to Wall Street bucketshops.

That's how I got interested in a proxy rating in speculation. That was the gravy he spooned from his wife who was Russell Sage's niece.

Chapin balanced his books by bumping off the missus. He decoyed her into a Bowery shooting gallery and stuck a clay pipe in her kisser.

It was 1929 that made confetti out of paper profits. Mrs. Chapin never knew she was a minus sign.

I've followed the market ever since and this October sure was a chip off the old jumping-jack. Every time Ike made a speech we got enough ticker tape to lasso the Queen.

Old Barnabas Baruch said we're as solid as a green cantaloupe. Barney says we have no more to worry about than a turtle under a porch.

Wall Street is the pulse of the nation. It acts like chills and fever with a decimal point.

Sometimes it's up and sometimes it's down. But if you haven't got a pulse you're deadier than salted herring.

Cystic Fibrosis Is A Hereditary Condition

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Cystic fibrosis was considered a rare disease of infants a generation ago. Nowadays, many large pediatric centers care for scores of these patients annually. Statistics reveal that 7,000 babies are born each year with this disorder and the majority die before the age of 3.

This hereditary condition affects the lungs or pancreas or both. The cause is not known but it is believed there is a defect in the glands lining the bronchial tree and the pancreatic ducts. These glands normally secrete a clear thin mucus that keeps the parts moist and lubricated. But in tots with cystic fibrosis a thick, stocky fluid is produced that clogs the air sacs and the ducts of the pancreas.

Symptoms depend upon the parts involved and how many glands are affected. Some children may not be bothered for years; others are in trouble from the first week of life. Cough occurs during the first year in 80 per cent of those with lung involvement.

Tenacious mucus irritates the membranes in much the same way as when a person has a cold. The child hacks and hacks as though he has whooping cough. Such handicapped lungs are easy prey to bacteria and viruses and the ensuing respiratory infections aggravate the original disorder. Before the advent of penicillin, death often resulted from these infections.

When the pancreas is affected, a different group of symptoms arise. The tyke fails to gain weight even though he has a good appetite. Pancreatic enzymes fail to reach the digestive tract, leading to faulty digestion. The result is bulky, foul smelling stools containing undigested food particles. The youngster develops a pot belly due to distention and dilatation of the intestine. Improper utilization of food produces fatigue and in time retards physical development.

There is no specific remedy. The antibiotics control specific infections in the lungs. A diet low in fats and high in proteins is best, when the pancreas is involved. A substitute pancreatic extract is used to supply the enzymes necessary for digestion.

WATCH THE HEAT

F. D. E. writes: I get pains in my legs after walking a few blocks. I've been putting a heating pad on at night but it doesn't seem to help. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY

The first suggestion is to obtain a diagnosis; the second is not to use heat in any form until you find out what is causing your pain. If you have Burger's disease, heat should be used only with the greatest caution, as the tissues are easily burned in this circulatory disorder. Our leaflet on Burger's goes into the disease more thoroughly; it may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

Postmaster General Delays Satellite Stamp Until U. S. Launches Its Own

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Arthur Summerfield is a pioneering Postmaster General when it comes to painting mailboxes red, white and blue; but he is very cautious regarding sputnik. He is just not going to print a new stamp commemorating the International Geophysical Year until the USA hoists a sputnik of its own into the skies.

Summerfield has already decided that the United States will honor the Geophysical Year with a commemorative stamp. However, he's going to wait until the very last day of the year—even if Dec. 31, 1958 if necessary—before issuing the stamp. Of course, if a real live American sputnik gets over the horizon before that day, then the stamp will be forthcoming.

Reason for the sagacious Summerfield's caution is that the design proposed for the Geophysical Year's stamp would include the official IGY emblem. This emblem shows a satellite orbiting through space around the globe.

The Russians had not made an announcement on their satellite plan when the IGY symbol was adopted; so world scientists, enchanted with the promised U.S. contribution to the "Year," placed the American satellite on the design of the emblem.

However, since the USA hasn't produced, the postage stamp using public would view this as the sputnik, not our would-be satellite. So Summerfield, taking no chances, will wait. He doesn't want to be accused of honoring Russia's achievement.

However, one nation, Japan, has already issued a postage stamp showing the IGY emblem and the would-be American satellite. It was issued July 10, 1957. Other countries have also been issuing stamps showing their contributions to the IGY program.

Molasses-Moving White House

A lot of people are asking: "Why the bog-down on the missile-satellite program?" Part of the answer goes to general molasses motion inside the White House. This bogs down a lot of problems. Here are some illustrations: Civil Right Commission — This was ballyhooed by the White House time and time again, beginning with the President's State of The Union message in January. On July 16 Ike urged: "I hope that Senate action on this measure will be accomplished at this session without undue delay." At that time a civil rights bill was certain to pass, and Ike could have begun considering commissioners to administer it. But he delayed. Not until November, more than two months after the bill was passed, did the President act.

Foreign Aid — No issue before Congress got more attention from Eisenhower than foreign aid. He especially urged a "Development Loan Fund" to lend money abroad. He got his loan fund from Congress—after going on television to appeal to the people. But now, three months after winning the battle, he still has not appointed a "fund manager" to administer the money he said was so essential.

Education — Beginning four years ago, the President publicly urged aid for education. Privately he gave Congress no help to pass aid to education. Scores of phone calls went to Congress to block Hell's Canyon and to block the Patman probe of high interest rates and Eisenhower fiscal policies. But not one to help secure aid for our schools, which are beginning to lag behind Russia.

The delay on missiles and satellites involved some other factors, but the so-called "tranquilizing" mood inside the White House was one reason for the bog-down.

New Hampshire Humorist

Greatest humorist in Congress, in a quiet, quaint, New England way, is Sen. Norris Cotton of New Hampshire. Here is a cross-section of his Coolidgeesque observations written to the folks back home:

"This Congress is both a hare and a tortoise—mostly tortoise." "We must get back to work." In my next letter I'll come down off the mountain top and report to you from the trenches." "As a boy, I was amazed and impressed by a lecture on the internal mechanism of the dairy cow. I regarded Bossy with a new respect, a complex machine—a milk factory on legs. She has four stomachs—one true stomach, three for storage. In one day she can cram 150 pounds of wet grass into her compartments. Then she retires to a shady place, regurgitates it in small amounts, chews it thoroughly, and digests it in her 'true stomach.' Congress should be equipped with the same kind of apparatus." "The Department of Agriculture will hire three additional mycologists—but will keep the same number of zymologists and cytopathologists. I am not sure what these are, but here's something I know about—the same department plans to spend $125,000 to increase production of castor oil in this country." "This week Texas and Arizona Senators slipped a joker into an appropriation bill to make the government buy protein meals (for cattle) and give them to their section as drought relief. . . . Yet since 1934, a food stamp bill to use some of our surplus in giving a proper diet to undernourished people hasn't been permitted to reach the floor. This solicitude for animals over humans is curious, isn't it? Reminds me of the first letter Henry Ward Beecher wrote—at the age of 5. "Der Sister, We are all wel Ma haz a baby The old sow has six pigs."

First And Last

By Brother Barnabas

First and last are antinomies in our language. Most people want to be first, but the last often come out first.

The Scriptures say (Matthew 19:30) Many that are first will be last.

On the playground when we were children and a new game was proposed a chorus of "Me first" was heard.

In the mad scramble to be first one may be so headstrong and unscrupulous as to alienate all followers, in which event he is both first and last.

Influence without power is stronger than prayer without influence. The loudmouthed, domineering autocrat who essays to rule with a rod of iron loses to the quiet reasonableness of those he seeks to lord it over. Offense is the best response. "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth" (Matthew 5:5).

Just now the whole world is set by the ears over Russia's being "first" to launch a rocket that spins around the earth 260 or more miles high at the speed of 18,000 m.p.h. Whether the first will be last remains to be seen. It has already been downgraded in a bit of doggerel struck off by a poetaster with an apology to Mother Goose:

Hey Diddle, Come Riddle, Come Rocket, Your missile is out of its socket, 'Twas the cow jumped over the moon The flying disk ran away with the spoon The sky interloper is only a goon Little Laika laughed to see all the sport, While Sputnik went on his way to the Moon.

We could fill the page with examples and be within the orbit of our caption.

The faculty of a certain college was in session to consider the awarding of degrees. The president was in the chair. One of the candidates for a doctor's degree was highly commended by one of his Fellows who said: "When this man has written on a subject the last word has been said."

The president wryly answered: "This may be well, but, perhaps we are looking for the man who says the first word." The trail blazers put their monikers on the road that leads to fame and fortune.

The pupil who stands at the head of his classes may fall behind, while the dullard or handicapped go round him in the race of life.

Harriet Martineau knew "Paradise Lost" almost by heart at the age of seven. Jonathan Swift could read any chapter of the Bible before he was three. John Stuart Mill read with ease Plato and Demosthenes at 10.

Harriet Martineau was deaf from early childhood. Arnold Bennett, Somerset Maugham and a host of other celebrities were stutterers.

Winston Churchill when a youth ranked by his instructors as the one in his class who was most unlikely to succeed. His Latin teacher found him "most difficult to teach."

Marriage is romantic but sometimes attended by difficulties. No one ever heard of a widow eloping.

In the Isle of Man marriage may be involved in a horserace. The young men of the village tie their horses to the church railings while the wedding takes place, and then as soon as it is over they scoot like mad for the bride's home. The first man there has the right to break the wedding cake over the bride's head. Some of our American headgear seems to be patterned after such a demolished cake. They are usually in good taste though anyone but the wearer is puzzled to know which is fore and which is aft.

Who should kiss the bride at a wedding? First the groom, then follow others in the party, in their proper echelons until the last in the ceremonial. The interval between the first and the last must not be too long protracted.

The bridegroom carries money with him into the church, and when he says "With all my worldly goods I thee endow," he gives the clergyman his fee, and then turns over the balance to a bridesmaid.

Baby's first tooth is a big event in any mother's calendar. I am taking the liberty of printing a limerick by a colleague of mine when his grand granddaughter cut her first tooth:

Big News of October 24, 1957 So today, United Nations. You are twelve years old. Some youth! That is fine but let me tell you—Baby Margie has a tooth! Russian Sputnik, keep on beeping. Aren't you just a bit uncouth? Yes, you're front-page—but stop! Baby Margie has a tooth. U. N. Sputnik make the headlines. But they hardly know the truth. Whoopla! Glory hallelujah! Baby Margie has a tooth! First and last, says BROTHER BARNABAS

Area Teacher Appears On TV Program

Explains Teaching On Closed Circuit

FROSTBURG — Mrs. Joseph Robeson, the former Miss Lorraine Martens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Franklin Martens, appeared on the television program "Today" yesterday morning as a part of American Education Week.

Mrs. Robeson was on for eight minutes showing how she teaches her class on the closed circuit TV in the Hagerstown area.

The program showed the action of one of her pupils in her classroom. In an interview on the program, several of the children were asked how they liked to be taught by television. Mrs. Robeson was also asked what her opinion was. She stated that it was much easier for the children to grasp their lesson due to the amount of material which she is able to use in her demonstrations.

She teaches arithmetic to 1,037 children at one time in 37 different classrooms. Thirty-seven teachers then evaluate the lesson and give help and aid wherever necessary.

Mrs. Robeson is a graduate of Frostburg State Teachers College. She teaches in Hagerstown fulltime on the closed circuit TV which is an experimental program.

The oft-quoted adage, "safety first," was successfully applied by the Shade-Central Panthers last night, as Coach Norm Geatz's LaSalle High Explorers lost, while 16-13 game to the Pennsylvanian club at Fort Hill Stadium.

A pair of safeties scored by the Shade-Central club, which hails from Cairnbrook, Pa., meant the difference in the bizarre battle, which found the Explorers losing more yardage on the ground than they gained, although outplaying the visitors in most of the other offensive departments.

Parsons Sets Up Score

A pass interception, accompanied by a spectacular runback, by Van Parsons, the Explorers' versatile quarterback, set up the first touchdown for the local eleven.

Midway in the first period Parsons grabbed a pass thrown by the Panthers' Steve Tarachak on his own 45 yard line, made his way down the right sidelines to the Shade-Central 30, cut back to his left, and was finally hauled out on the 18.

Parsons then threw a pass just over the line to "Doc" Richard, and Jack Bahen picked up yardage through the center of the line to move the ball to the 12. Another aerial from Parsons to Bobby Fair gave the Explorers a first down on the four yard line, and three plays later Richard bucked over from the one for the score. Joe Fonten's extra point attempt was wide to the left.

The hard-charging forward wall of the Panthers constantly broke through to throw LaSalle ball carriers for heavy losses. On one such occasion, Richard was snowed under back in the end zone by linemen Jim Russell, Tom Donahue, and Suffa, for a safety. The play had originated on the Explorers' 27 yard line.

Barr Runs 45 Yards

A bit of alert defensive work on the part of Rich Shaffer and Terry Barr gave LaSalle its second TD. With Tarachak back to pass, Shaffer knocked the ball out of the surprised quarterback's hand, whereupon Barr hauled it in and traveled 45 yards for the six-point. Fonten added the extra point, and the Explorers held a 13-2 lead at intermission.

Early in the third quarter the Explorers were driven all the way back to their own one yard line from where Phillips punted out to Mike Pribish, with the latter returning the ball to the LaSalle 20.

An offside penalty against LaSalle advanced the ball to the 15, then Neil Gibbons bulled his way to a first on the Explorer eight. On third down Tarachak dropped back to pass, but decided instead to keep the ball, and went over for the touchdown on a dash around right end.

A bad pass from center cost the locals two points in the final quarter. With Phillips standing back in punt formation on his own 15 yard line, the ball sailed over his head and wound up in the end zone. Phillips went back in an effort to retrieve the ball, but was met by the onrushing Shade line, behind the goal line. Gibbons Gallops 60

Kenny Harris then kicked off for the Explorers from the 20. Gibbons took the boot on the Keystones' 40, and galloped 60 yards for the final touchdown. Gibbons kick for the point after was wide to the right. The lineups:

Frye Paces PVC Scorers For Season

Petersburg Player Garners 66 Points

Fullback John Frye, of the Petersburg High School Vikings, led the scorers of the Potomac Valley Conference for the 1957 football season by chalking up a total of 66 points on ten touchdowns and six conversions.

Runner-up honors went to Larry Jones, of the West Virginia School for the Deaf, of Romney, who collected 43 points on seven touchdowns and one conversion.

Jim Vetter and Denton Thorne, of Moorefield, and Dorman Ayers, of Romney, tied for third place with 30 points each. Vetter, incidentally, scored all his points in the first three games of the season. He suffered a fractured leg in practice before the fourth game with Ridgeley and missed the last five contests.

Frye follows Charles Buemi of the West Virginia School for the Deaf as the league's top scorer. Buemi, who was graduated this year, scored 74 points in 1956. Other leaders in recent years were: 1955 — Jimmie Webb, Keyser 48, 1954 — Rick Kephart, Keyser, 60, 1953 — Ernie Courrier, Keyser, 63, 1952 — Ernie Courrier, Keyser 73, 1951 — Bobby Wilson, Moorefield 49, 1950 — Orville Payne, Romney, 41, 1949 — Rollin McCleary, Romney 48.

Romney High School's Pioneers continued to cast a spell over Berkeley Springs High School when they beat the Indians for the eleventh consecutive year yesterday at Berkeley Springs and knocked the Morgan Countians out of a chance to share the Potomac Valley Conference title with Keyser High's Golden Tornado. A fourth quarter touchdown produced a 12-6 victory for Romney.

Pass Decides Battle

Hott's 12-yard pass to Haines in the final period scored the touchdown that broke a 6-6 deadlock and gave the Pioneers a 3-3 record for the season in the PVC. Romney closed the season with an overall mark of 3-7.

Dorman Ayers accounted for Romney's first touchdown in the opening period when he returned a punt 43 yards. Bill Clatterback of Berkeley knotted the score in the second stanza when he raced 51 yards to paydirt.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 15 (AP) — A supercharged Maryland football team rode Bob Rusevlyan's accurate passing arm to a surprise 16-6 victory over Miami's favored Hurricanes tonight before a homecoming crowd of 42,701 in the Orange Bowl.

The Hurricanes had no defense against Rusevlyan's throws and after Maryland jumped into a 10-0 first quarter lead it was apparent that this was going to be the Terps' night. Expected to lose by seven points, they had full control of the game.

Rusevlyan pitched a yard to Howie Dare for one Maryland touchdown and his passes to Dare, Bill Turner and Fred Hamilton accounted for most of the yardage in the other Maryland scoring drive. John Fritsch added three points to the Terp total by kicking a field goal.

Miami fumbles helped the alert Maryland team and enabled them to jump into a 3-0 lead at the start.

Miami's Byron Blask dropped the opening kickoff and Tom Gunderman dropped on it at the Miami 27. On the second offensive play, Dickie Lewis dashed 19 yards to a first down at the Miami four.

Three plays later, Maryland was back at the six and Fritsch went in to boot his field goal.

Then Rusevlyan led the Terps on a 73-yard aerial drive that ended with Phil Perlo diving two yards for a touchdown. Rusevlyan's conversion made it 10-0.

Miami's sophomore quarterback, Fran Curci, directed the Hurricanes to their only touchdown on the Terp margin to 10-6 at halftime. The 142-pound Curci pitched out to John Varone for 14 yards, then connected with three consecutive passes to put the ball on the Maryland 15. From there, Varone got across in two running plays.

In the second quarter, the fired-up Maryland team prowled inside the Miami 10-yard line twice without scoring. A 31-yard run by Lewis sparked one drive that died at the Miami seven. Another in which Rusevlyan's passes were the dominant factor carried to the nine before the Terps were stopped by a foul penalty.

Dare got Maryland off to a spectacular start in the second half when he returned the kickoff off 76 yards to the Miami 18 but the chance was killed when two consecutive penalties for holding and a personal foul set the Terps back 30 yards.

A short time later, Maryland got its second touchdown, after Ben Scott had pounced on a fumble by Curci at the Miami 44. Maryland 10 0 0 6-16

Maryland scoring: Touchdowns — Perlo (2-plunge); Dare (1-pass from Rusevlyan). Conversion — Rusevlyan. Field Goal — Fritsch. Miami scoring: Touchdown — Varone (7-run).

Victorious in their last four outings, Beall High School's gridders journey to Winchester, Va., to tackle Coach Hunter Maddex's Handley High School Judges in a game scheduled for 2 p. m. today.

Handley goes into today's game with a three-game winning streak and a 4-2-1 record and is one of the toughest foes on the Mountaineers' schedule this season.

Handley boasts a very heavy line, averaging just under 180 pounds. Beall's forward wall averages 162. The big men in Judges' line are Tackle John Merriner, who tips the scales at 205 and Bill Shendow, tackle, 195. The Virginians have a small, fast backfield paced by Russell Potts, who has taken over the ball-carrying duties since injuries put Jack Crenshaw out of action. Crenshaw was the star in Handley's 13-0 win over Allegany early in the season.

Coach Jerry Calhoun's Mountaineers will windup their season on Thanksgiving Day, playing LaSalle at Frostburg. Beall's record now is five wins and three losses.

Dick Winfield, who has been playing first string end, has a bruised shoulder and will see limited action. Wayne McKenzie will replace him. Joe McGowan, offensive tackle, is ill and Jack Hunter will play on both offense and defense for Beall in this game.

Beall's band also will make the trip.

"Tack And Stan Fund" Launched By Keyser Lions

In an effort to show the appreciation of Keyser fans for the excellent job accomplished by Coaches Frederick "Tack" Clark and Joseph Stanislawczyk in guiding Keyser High School through 2½ undefeated seasons and a winning streak of 26 games, the Keyser Lions Club has launched the "Tack and Stan Fund" which will serve as a testimonial to both mentors.

Other organizations and individuals are expected to join in the drive to raise funds for an appropriate gift for the coaches who led Keyser to the state Class A title in 1956 and are heading another team that has qualified for a state championship contest. James R. Fuller, of the Lions Club, is chairman of the "Tack and Stan Fund" committee. Other members are Raymond L. Murray, city councilman; James W. Goldsworthy, assistant principal, Keyser High School, Owen S. Schaeffer and Keister Smith.

Keyser High School yesterday clinched its fourth straight Potomac Valley Conference Championship. In 15 years as head coach at Keyser, Clark's teams have won seven titles outright and shared one championship with Ridgeley. His Moorefield High eleven also won the PVC crown in 1942.

Fullmer Beats Neal Rivers

NEW YORK, Nov. 15 (AP) — Gene Fullmer closed strong in a rough, bruising battle to win a split decision over sharp punching Neal Rivers tonight in a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden. Two officials voted for Fullmer, the third called it a draw. Fullmer weighed 159½, Rivers 157.

Referee Mark Conn called it 6-3 and Judge Artie Aidala had it 6-3 both for Fullmer. Judge Bill Recht scored it a draw at 4-4-2 with six points for each. The AP card was 5-4-1 Fullmer. A quick ringside poll of boxing writers showed a 10-3 edge for Fullmer with one voting a draw.

Sooners, Irish, Iowa, Buckeyes Hold Spotlight

Mississippi, Vols, Yale, Princeton Also Meet Today

By HUGH FULLERTON JR., The Associated Press

In 79 football meetings, Yale and Princeton have established one of the game's oldest and finest traditions. Oklahoma and Notre Dame have done much the same thing in just three.

The same teams come together again today with sellout crowds assured for both games. They're a contrasting pair of important games and among the most interesting on a schedule loaded with contests in which sectional championships may be decided and bowl invitations earned.

Other Top Games

Some of the others include a tussle between Mississippi and Tennessee; the Big Ten title battle between Iowa and Ohio State; the Texas A&M-Rice struggle in the Southwest Conference and Duke's clash with Clemson in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

When Notre Dame and Oklahoma first met in 1952, the Irish side were rated way up there—the team to beat in any season—while Oklahoma was a rising power still hopeful of knocking off Notre Dame. The next year the Irish unknowingly became the last team to beat the Sooners before the start of their record winning streak, which now stands at 47 straight games.

Could Regain Prestige

Since then their positions have been more or less reversed. Notre Dame, after a miserable 1956 season and a couple of losses this year, looks on this game as a chance to regain lost prestige. Oklahoma, which so far this year hasn't shown much of its old explosive scoring power, needs an imposing victory to remain in the race for the national championship.

Yale and Princeton don't appear in the national ratings, nor in bowl games. Their 80th football game likely will decide the big three championship—still held in high esteem by the contesting teams—and possibly the Ivy League title.

The winner of the big Southeastern game is almost sure to get a bowl bid and possibly the loser too. Ole Miss, winner of four in the SEC, trails Auburn, which is ineligible for post-season games because of a NCAA penalty. Tennessee, loser to Auburn in its season opener, has won six straight since then. The Sugar, Cotton and Gator Bowl selectors will eye this game too, considerable interest.

Iowa Seeks Title

Iowa can earn its second straight Big Ten title by beating Ohio State but isn't allowed to return to the Rose Bowl. Ohio's Buckeyes would be in line for the bowl berth, but they'd still have to reckon with Michigan in their final game and with Michigan State's pretensions. Oregon, needing one more victory to wrap up the other half of the Rose Bowl package, could do it against Southern California.

The Texas Aggies, barred from a bowl last year because of NCAA probation, can clinch a spot in the Cotton Bowl by beating Rice, now second in the Southwest Conference. Twice-tied Duke can earn the place as Oklahoma's Orange Bowl opponent by whipping Clemson.

Army Plays Tulane

Navy, which has indicated it would accept a bowl invitation if it beats Army this year, plays George Washington, Army, which has said it isn't interested in post-season games, meets Tulane.

Elsewhere some of the standout games are:

South Carolina-Virginia, North Carolina State-Virginia Tech, West Virginia-Wake Forest, Rutgers-William and Mary, The Citadel-VMI.

Maryland Frosh Edge Navy, 7-6

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 15 (AP) — A spectacular 98 - yard touchdown run by Navy halfback Joe Bellino went for naught today as the Maryland freshmen defeated Navy's plebe football team 7-6.

The winning point was kicked by Maryland right end Vincent Scott in the first quarter after he had caught a 12-yard touchdown pass from substitute quarterback Jim Head.

Navy's bid to tie up came with only four minutes left to play on the muddy Thompson Stadium turf.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Nov. 15 — Martinsburg High School's Bulldogs staved off a late rush by Allegany High School Campers tonight to defeat the Cumberlanders in a C.V.A.L. football battle by the score of 13-7. The defeat was the third in a row for the visitors.

Stopped On 2-Yard Line

Late in the final period, after Jack Cranor, of Allegany, had fumbled and Dickie Dailey recovered, Martinsburg punted on the fourth down to Allegany's 30 and Dick Powell returned to the Bulldogs' 49. Allegany unleashed a passing attack that gave the contest a thrilling finish. Gary Shook passed to Wayne Shook on the Martinsburg 44. Then Shook connected with a pass to Glenn Davis on the 36. With 2½ minutes remaining, Gary Shook heaved an aerial to his brother, Wayne, on the 14. On the next play Gary Shook fumbled but recovered for no gain. Cranor snared another Shook pass on the 8. Wayne Shook took the pigskin to the 6.

On fourth down and two yards to go, Cranor plunged to 4 and on the next play Charles Lowendick went to the one. With several seconds remaining, Cranor attempted to run the ball but was smeared on the two as time ran out.

Martinsburg took the opening kickoff and drove 71 yards for the first touchdown of the game which came eleven plays later. Most of the ground-gaining was credited to Jake Myrick during the march. On fourth down and eight, Dickie Dailey hit Billy Pappas with a pass on the 12 and the latter sprinted into the end zone. Doug Brown kicked the point.

Cranor Sparks Drive

In the second period, Allegany halted a Martinsburg drive on the Campers' 36. In three carries Lowendick chalked up a first step in midfield. Cranor ran off tackle for 38 yards to the 12, then he picked up 15 more yards in the two succeeding plays. On third down, Gary Shook ran right end for the touchdown. He also ran the extra point.

With 3½ minutes remaining in the second period, Otto Reuter recovered Lowendick's fumble on the Campers' 29 and Coach John Coburn's team was headed for its winning touchdown. With Dailey, Myrick and Pappas carrying, the Bulldogs moved to the 15 in three plays. Then Dailey flipped a jump pass to Gene Miller, who caught the ball on the two. Pappas plunged over from there but was stopped when he attempted to run the extra point.

Billy Hillenbrand, Hoosier Hot-Shot

Billy Hillenbrand

By WALTER L. JOHNS

Central Press Sports Editor

ALTHOUGH he played but two seasons—the service call got him—Billy Hillenbrand ranks as Indiana university's all-time great football hero.

The Hoosier Hot-Shot could do just about everything on the football field.

He sparked as a soph star in 1941 when he scored seven touchdowns, piled up nearly 700 yards in offense on rushes and pass receiving and enjoyed his greatest day against Wisconsin when he ran a punt back 88 yards for one score and passed for three other touchdowns.

As a junior in 1942 he was even better.

He was the whole show in several of the Indiana games, piled up 498 yards rushing and 901 yards passing and lugged the ball over the goal line six times.

BILLY'S running ability was balanced by his passing perfection. In the two years he played for the Hoosiers, he scored 13 touchdowns and accounted for 18 others by passing.

In 1941 his 42 punt returns led the nation.

After coming out of the service Hillenbrand played professional football where he also starred for several seasons.

Intrusa Cops Pimlico 7th

Payoff Is $28.20

In Ponder Purse

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15 (AP)—Intrusa, a South American bred mare imported from Argentina, today gained her first victory in two years of campaigning, leading the entire mile and a sixteenth distance of the $4,500 Ponder Purse at Pimlico track.

Smartly handled by Nick Shuk, Intrusa was all out to turn back the challenge of Honey's Tiger, but she responded to Shuk's whipping and gained a half-length decision at odds of $28.20 to $2.

Honey's Tiger was second by a length and a half over Koreskes. Intrusa paid $28.20, $9 and $6.20; Honey Tiger $4.60 and $3.40 and Koreskes $3.80.

A crowd of 10,079 fans turned out in sunny weather for the third program of the 28-day meeting.

Intrusa, owned by the Brookmeade Stable, is a 6-year-old daughter of Gulf Stream and came up to today's race with a poor North American record. In nine starts over the past two seasons, she had earned only $400.

Lane, Tydings Draw Fire Of D'Alesandro

Mayor Angered By Support For Tawes

By LOUIS G. PANOS

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15 (AP) — Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, leaving little doubt he plans to run for the Democratic nomination for governor, lashed out tonight at former Gov. W. Preston Lane and former U. S. Sen. Millard E. Tydings.

Obviously stung by Lane's endorsement of State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes for the nomination in Maryland's 1958 primary, the Baltimore mayor accused the former governor of being a party wrecker and the former senator of ingratitude.

D'Alesandro also lent weight to reports that he will team up with a former enemy, George P. Mahoney, in next year's campaign. Mahoney has declared he will run for state-wide office, but has left in doubt which office and on whose ticket.

"Lane's brutal firing of George P. Mahoney as racing commissioner while he was attending a racing commissioner's convention," charged the mayor, "directly led to the disruption of the Democratic Party and brought about the election of a Republican governor and two Republican United States senators."

The Eye Of The Needle

Referring to Lane's suggestion that other Democrats sacrifice personal ambition, discard selfishness and back Tawes in the interest of party harmony, D'Alesandro added:

"What he knows about harmony you could put through the eye of a needle."

"Mr. Lane mentions selfishness. Was he selfish when he insisted on running for governor the second time when he knew he was plunging the Democratic Party into defeat?"

Lane was opposed in his 1950 bid for renomination by Mahoney, whom he had fired as racing commission chairman shortly after taking office four years earlier. Mahoney received more popular votes in the primary, but Lane won the nomination on the basis of Maryland's unusual county-unit vote system.

Lane was then defeated in the general election by Republican Theodore R. McKeldin, who won a second term in 1954 and is now ineligible for a third consecutive term.

An Oscar For Tydings?

Turning his fire to Tydings, who was among 100 Harford County leaders endorsing Tawes last week, D'Alesandro said:

"As for Mr. Tydings' statement, he ought to win the Academy Award for gratitude."

He said that in 1956 Tydings, desiring to run for the Senate seat he had held for 24 years before his 1950 loss to Republican John Marshall Butler, "wouldn't even announce for senator until I had publicly pledged my whole-hearted support."

"Not only did I give him whole-hearted support," said the mayor, "but I even tried to get the senatorial nomination for Mrs. Tydings when illness forced him to withdraw after the primary. The defeat of his wife was directly caused by th man he now is supporting."

Mahoney, who had lost to Tydings in the primary, mustered enough votes in a special meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee to win the nod over Mrs. Tydings as her husband's replacement in the general campaign. He lost to Butler in the general election.

Confers With Pollack

In the central committee fight, as in the primary, Tawes was aligned with Mahoney against the Tydings-D'Alesandro-Lane group.

D'Alesandro's sharply worded statement was issued several hours after he conferred with Mahoney and James H. (Jack) Pollack, a strong party figure in northwest Baltimore.

D'Alesandro has told political meeting audiences he will formally announce as a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination around Thanksgiving Day.

Besides Tawes, those who have already filed are Dr. H. C. Byrd, former University of Maryland president and the unsuccessful nominee in 1954, and John H. Reed, former Baltimore City councilman.

Tawes' running mate is Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert, who is seeking renomination.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth House, Baltimore, announce the birth of a son recently in St. Joseph's Hospital there. The mother is the former Miss Katinka Everett of Short Gap.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ridenbaugh, Cleveland, Ohio, announce the birth of a daughter there November 5. The mother is the former Miss Romona Amick of Oldtown.

Midland Man Takes Oath As Delegate

Delegate David J. Williams, 49, of Midland, has resigned as a member of the Allegheny County Republican Committee and as a substitute trial magistrate in Allegheny County, according to James S. Getty, chairman of the GOP committee.

Del. Williams was appointed a member of the Allegheny County Delegation to the General Assembly last week to succeed the late Samuel M. Berry, of Westernport, who died recently.

Mr. Getty said he will call a meeting of the Allegheny County Republican Committee within the next two weeks to make recommendations for the GOP committee post and for substitute trial magistrate.

Del. Williams will serve as delegate until the November 1958 general election and will attend the 30-day session of the General Assembly in February.

He received his commission from Governor McKeldin last week and was sworn in Monday in Baltimore by Del. John C. Luber, speaker of the House.

C&P To Seek Another Rate Hike In W.Va.

Motion Presented During Hearing

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 15 (AP)—The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. indicated that it would request an additional rate increase on intrastate station-to-station calls during a Public Service Commission hearing today.

The intention, called to the commission's attention in the form of a unique motion, was presented by C & P attorneys shortly before the conclusion of a hearing concerning the telephone company's application for a $3,987,000 per year rate increase.

The proposed rate increase, which has been in effect under bond since Sept. 23, affects about 299,000 customers in most of the state.

C & P asked the commission to grant permission to file a petition for additional rate increases to relieve company expenditures for a recent labor contract. A company spokesman said the increase would be 5 cents tacked onto station-to-station calls within the state which cost 25 cents or more.

The company's motion asked that the petition be considered in the final order on the almost 4 million dollar rate increase.

PSC Chairman Myron R. Renick announced that research and study on the motion's legality must be performed before the three-member panel could allow or refuse the motion. Renick added:

"The motion decision will not delay decision of the rate case on its merits."

The C & P motion was an outgrowth of testimony earlier today by R. B. Snyder of Charleston, comptroller of the company.

Snyder told the commission that the utility's rate of return on its financial investment in operating its telephone service has slumped to 6.01 per cent.

Stickup Suspect Asks For Trial On Information

Stanley M. Davis, 36, of Route 1, Watson, W. Va., who is charged with the robbery of about $153 from a local finance company office on November 1, is seeking an immediate trial in Allegheny County Circuit Court.

Papers were filed yesterday in court in which Davis waives his right to indictment by a grand jury and seeks an immediate trial by the court. His attorney is Earl E. Manges.

Davis surrendered to city police about an hour after the armed robbery took place at the Family Finance Company office at 40 North Mechanic Street.

Police said he forced drivers of a car and truck to take him to and from the scene of the robbery. He surrendered to Officer Harold Gibson, one of six city policemen sent to The Hub, a men's clothing store at 19 North Centre Street.

In his pocket was a cocked revolver which police said he used to hold up the finance office and to force a local man to drive him to the office and accompany him inside.

Davis had gone to Police Headquarters earlier in the day and secured a permit to buy a gun, which he later purchased. Unable to buy rim-fire cartridges for the weapon, he later traded it at a loan company for a .38 caliber revolver.

The stickup occurred shortly after 1 p. m. on November 1. Davis has been lodged in Allegheny County jail since his arrest.

Showalter Remains On Critical List

Police said William Showalter, 40, of near Clearville, Pa., admitted yesterday that he fatally stabbed his wife Thursday afternoon and later attempted to end his life by stabbing himself with a knife.

The weapon has been located by authorities, who questioned Showalter yesterday at Bedford County (Pa.) Memorial Hospital where he is reported on the critical list with stab wounds in his abdomen, chest and neck.

Stabbed to death was Mrs. Hilda Showalter, 35, who ran from the Showalter house following the stabbing and collapsed on the lawn.

District Attorney E. W. Van Horn indicated that Showalter will face prosecution for the death of his wife, although no formal charge has yet been placed against him.

The couple have one daughter who is about 10 years old. Showalter is under 24-hour guard at the hospital.
